Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-8, drawn to a calcium tartrate composition, classified in class 423, subclass 583.
- II. Claims 9-11 and 14-16, drawn to a method of making calcium tartrate, classified in class 423, subclass 202.
- III. Claims 12, 13, 17, and 18, drawn to a cementitious/plaster composition, classified in class 106, subclass 713.

Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, there are many different ways to make calcium tartrate. The most common being from wine production wherein this material is formed naturally from wine/grape fermentation. This is thus a materially different process of making a material that already occurs in nature.

Note: It would appear to be improper to claim calcium tartrate at all because it is a material that occurs in nature and would appear the equivalent of claiming granite, igneous rock, or possibly sodium chloride which are all unpatentable materials for the same reason.

Inventions I and III are related as mutually exclusive species in an intermediate-final product relationship. Distinctness is proven for claims in this relationship if the intermediate product is useful to make other than the final product (MPEP § 806.04(b), 3rd paragraph), and the species are patentably distinct (MPEP § 806.04(h)). In the instant case, the intermediate product is deemed to be useful as a food additive and a detergent builder, part of a heat storage material, , pharmacology uses, etc. and the inventions are deemed patentably distinct since there is nothing on this record to show them to be obvious variants. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions anticipated by the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Inventions II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different modes of operation, functions, and effects and are patentably distinct as shown by their mutually exclusive characteristics.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
